

B - Stannard Lookout

In the Town of Stannard (USGS Stannard) within the Steam Mill Brook Wildlife Management Area (WMA) the Stannard Lookout (2560 ft.), situated between Stannard Mountain and Wheelock Mountain, provides an impressive view. The woods trail, used by snowmobiles in the winter, begins on the south side of the Stannard Mountain Road near the height of land and the Wheelock/Stannard Town Line. From the pull-off, go east for a short distance and look for the trail on the right. The trail climbs easily along an old woods road and soon reaches Stannard Pond where it turns and skirts the eastern edge. After rounding Stannard Pond, the trail turns southward again, climbing moderately to a VAST trail junction. At the junction, follow the trail eastward where it climbs a short distance and soon reaches a wooded knoll and lookout. Extensive local views of Burke Mountain and the Lyndon area are evident to the east. Please note this has not been designated as a hiking trail by the VT Department of Fish and Wildlife and therefore has not been blazed or maintained for this purpose.

SUMMARY: Road to summit, approx. 1.2 mi.; 400 ft. ascent; 1 hr. (Rev. 40 min.).
